$150 Reward Offered in Billue Case

Sheriff Pittman Posts Reward for Killing at Emmet

Nevada Sheriff Will Pay for Information—Clues Fail in Investigation

IN NEVADA COUNTY

Billue a Hempstead Man, But Was Killed 75 Yards Over County Line

A reward of $150 was offered here Tuesday by Sheriff Arlie E. Pittman of Nevada county for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the slaying of R. S. (Bob) Billue, veteran watchman for the Emmet Mercantile company, who was killed early Sunday morning in an apparent attempt to thwart a robbery.

Confronted with meager clues, officers have made but little headway in the investigation of one of the most dastardly crimes in this area in recent years.

Although Billue was a Hempstead county man, the actual crime occurred 75 yards beyond the Hempstead line in Nevada county.

Sheriff Pittman and a number of deputies have been joined in the investigation by Sheriff Jim Bearden of Hempstead. Officers reluctantly said Tuesday that little progress had been made.

Billue was clubbed to death with his own weapon, a double-barrel shotgun when he was aroused at 3 a. m. by a noise in the building. When he went to investigate the robber or robbers grappled with him, striking him over the head several times with the gun.

Residents nearby reported to officers that an automobile was driven away from the building shortly afterwards. Billue was knocked unconscious and died before making a statement.

Alcoholic Deaths Increase Slightly

Rate Per 100,000 Rises From 2.5 to 2.9—New York's Declines

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Apparent evidence that "people are drinking more" was seen Monday in United States public health estimates that 2,655 persons died of alcoholism during 1934.

Dr. R. C. Williams, assistant surgeon general, said the Public Health Service "is not alarmed" at an increase of 258 deaths from chronic and acute alcoholism during the last reported year.

The death rate from this cause stood at 2.9 per 100,000 of population for 1934, an increase from 2.6 in 1933 and 2.5 in the full pre-prohibition year of 1932.

No estimate was made of the number of deaths from poison liquor, or alcoholic cases having been listed together.

The figures were said by one Census Bureau official not to be altogether accurate. The official, who did not wish to be quoted, said there is every reason to believe many family physicians.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—After losing an initial skirmish in the supreme court over the AAA, the New Dealers quickly announced Tuesday that the flow of benefit checks to farmers would continue regardless of the final outcome of the rice processing tax case.

BOSTON, Mass.—(AP)—Wood believed to be identical with that of the Lindbergh kidnap ladder, handwriting similar to the ransom notes, and bills which investigators hope may be part of the ransom money, have been discovered in Massachusetts, the Boston Globe says Tuesday in a copy-right story.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The North American company, one of the largest public utility holding concerns, asked the District of Columbia Tuesday to prevent the government from enforcing the holding company act.

NEW YORK—(AP)—A chief investigator for Bruno Richard Hauptmann declared Tuesday that he had learned on "unimpeachable authority" that Lindbergh ransom bills turned up recently in Boston and Worcester, Mass. The Department of Justice office in New York said, "We have no information on this matter."

Arkansas Nearing WPA Payroll Goal

30,720 Actually Employed, Against Expected Total of 39,200

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—State Administrator W. R. Dyess said Tuesday that Arkansas is rapidly reaching its goal of 39,200 WPA workers.

His report Tuesday showed that a total of 30,720 are actually on the payrolls, but it is estimated that approximately 2,500 more are at work but have not received their first pay check.

The list of relief workers by districts includes:

District Two, Pine Bluff, 4,479.

District Four, Russellville, 3,500.

Camden District, 2,800.

District Seven, Hope, 3,400.

District Eight, Batesville, 3,071.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers, told reporters after Green had handed them copies of a letter he had sent to Lewis. The letter went also to the six other union presidents who have banded together to work for unionization of mass production workers by industry rather than by craft. That is, they would have one union for workers in the steel industry, rather than several unions of different steel crafts.

"When organizations within organizations are formed for the achievement and realization of some declared purpose, no one can accurately prophesy or predict where such a movement will lead," Green said in the letter.

"I won't change our plans at all," Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers, told reporters after Green had handed them copies of a letter he had sent to Lewis. The letter went also to the six other union presidents who have banded together to work for unionization of mass production workers by industry rather than by craft. That is, they would have one union for workers in the steel industry, rather than several unions of different steel crafts.

"My conscience and my judgment lead me to advise against it and emphasize most vigorously the danger of division and of discord which may follow."

This exchange followed Lewis' resignation Saturday as a vice president of the federation, and his explanation to reporters Monday that it was due to "irreconcilable differences" with a majority of the executive council over "how workers in our large industries should be organized."

During the last 140 years, more than 500,000,000 ounces of gold, worth about $15,000,000,000 at present prices, have been lost.

Hope Students to Hear Hot Spring Broadcast at 10 a. m. Wednesday

Class work at Hope High School will be suspended 30 minutes Wednesday morning to give students an opportunity to hear a pep program broadcast by Hot Springs High School students.

The program starts at 10 a. m. and will be broadcast over KTHS, Hot Springs radio station. The radio system at Hope High School will be connected in each class room during the program.

Miss Henry, superintendent of Hope Schools, sent out an appeal Tuesday for automobiles to carry members of the Hope Boys band to the Hot Springs-Hope game Thursday.

Miss Henry said that all but 12 members of the band had obtained transportation. She asked that a way be obtained for the others. Any person wishing to take a member of the band is asked to call Miss Henry.

A pep meeting and banquet will be given to the Bobcat team Wednesday night at the Capital hotel by the Young Business Men's association. The banquet starts at 7:30 p. m. and every friend and supporter of the team is invited to attend.

The Bobcat team is battling 100 per cent as result of banquets. For the past two years they have won important games after each banquet.

"Hope Wants to Win"

A member of the association Tuesday said:

"We want to win that Hot Springs game. We're giving the Bobcats another banquet—and we hope they will keep the record clean."

At the football field at Hope Stadium Tuesday afternoon the Bobcats went through a long drill in preparation for the tussle at Hot Springs Thanksgiving Day.

The Brookwood Parent-Teachers association announced Tuesday that it would open a P-T. A. Exchange in a downtown building December 10 at which time articles would be sold to raise money for P-T. A. work.

The exchange will sell articles for any P-T. A. mother or the public. The association's part of the proceeds will be 20 per cent. The Exchange plans to operate eight days. Persons interested may get in touch with Miss Berger Jones or Mrs. B. O'Dwyer.

Average Gain in Income 5.18. Pct.

Earnings Up to $2.55 Per Month Over Increased Cost of Living

NEW YORK—The buying power of the average American family increased during the third quarter of this year. A continued rise in wages and a definite break in the upward movement of food prices were the factors in the increase, it was said Monday by the Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

An average household, with an income of $125 a month during the third quarter of 1934, has seen that income increase 5.18 per cent in the following 12 months, the insurance company said. This means that today the same family would have a pay check of $131.48 incoming during the third of 1935.

At the same time, however, the average monthly rental increased 9.18 per cent, so that the $125 a month family's normal budget allowance of $25 for rent would have to be stepped up to $27.30 per month in the autumn of 1935 to pay for the same living quarters.

To Study Costs of County Government

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The State Planning Board voted Tuesday to appoint a committee to study the advisability of making a survey of county governmental costs, for presentation to the next legislature. This action was taken on a motion by F. W. ### Churches Observe Thanksgiving Day

Programs Planned at Hope Institutions Wednesday and Thursday

Thanksgiving services are planned at Hope churches.

At First Baptist church a 45-minute worship will be held Thursday morning. At First Presbyterian church the mid-week prayer service Wednesday night will be devoted to Thanksgiving activities.

The congregation and friends of the First Baptist church are invited to attend their Thanksgiving service Thursday morning at 7 o'clock. This will be the first time in many years that such a service has been held, and it will be characterized by brevity and simplicity.

The early hour has been chosen in order that people may attend and still make the trips which they want to make on Thanksgiving day.

The worship will begin at 7 and will be over by 7:45.

Free-Thanksgiving services were held last Sunday at First Presbyterian church. A special offering was taken and sent to the Presbyterian orphanage at Monticello. The auxiliary of the church had previously sent food and money to the orphanage, which is part of Thanksgiving activities of the church.

The Rev. Thomas Brewster, pastor, will deliver a Thanksgiving message Thursday night at the Alton CCC camp.

R. B. Powell, of Fulton, Traces Fine Instrument Back to England

R. B. Powell, of Fulton, has a violin that has been in the family more than 125 years. Mr. Powell said the violin was brought to the United States from England by his grandfather, Jake Powell.

At his death the violin was handed down to a son, Kleb Powell who in turn gave it to R. B. Powell, its present owner. Mr. Powell said he learned to play the violin 51 years ago. The violin is still in use.

Payrolls Gain in Month of October

Employment Found for 250,000 Who Were Jobless in September

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Continued gains in employment and pay-rolls last month were reported by the Labor Department Monday. Secretary Perkins announced 250,000 jobless had returned to work and pay rolls increased $8,200,000 over September in those sections of industry covered by the department's survey.

Manufacturing industries, continuing in the trend that started last August, gave work to 2.2 per cent more persons in October than they did the previous month. Their pay rolls jumped 4.2 per cent.

No percentages were figured for the non-manufacturing industries, but here are a few of the items:

About 51,000 retail stores reported they had taken on 75,000 new employees during the month. Wholesale establishments increased employment by 24,000. Anthracite mines gave work to 18,000 previously idle and metal mines to another 3,000.

The department gave the following summary of employment on government relief projects:

Works projects financed by the last relief act, 65,000; WPA, 320,000; Civilian Conservation Corps, 551,000; regular government projects, 60,000; state roads, 188,000.

60 Slain as Brazil Puts Down Revolt by "Red" Plotters

Communists Strike at Cavalry Regiment in Capital City—But Lose

LEADER ARRESTED

But Revolutionists Continue Campaign in Distant Provinces

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil—(AP)—An alleged plot to enlist the First Cavalry regiment, quartered in the heart of Rio de Janeiro, in the communist plot against the government, was thwarted Tuesday as reports from authentic sources showed a rebellion death list of from 40 to 60 men.

Lieutenant Laura Fontoura, detailed to the training of reserve officers, was arrested before dawn charged with attempting to incite a revolt of the cavalry unit.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil—(AP)—An alleged plot to enlist the First Cavalry regiment, quartered in the heart of Rio de Janeiro, in the communist plot against the government, was thwarted Tuesday as reports from authentic sources showed a rebellion death list of from 40 to 60 men.

As planes, warships and troops were pressed into action to quell a bloody revolt in the north, the senate, in an emergency session, approved a 60-day state of siege by a vote of 25 to 3 and the president quickly put the measure in force. A few hours earlier the Chamber of Deputies had approved the drastic resolution, 155 to 69.

The declaration divested the nation of many of its constitutional guarantees for the third time since Vargas took office five years ago at the head of a revolution.

It took effect as the only authenticated report from the northeast indicated Communist insurgents of the state of Rio Grande do Norte still were holding the important seaport capital of Natal and the city of Maca-hyba.

A telegram from Santa Cruz, on the border of the state of Parahyba, said 400 government troops were hurrying by forced marches toward Maca-hyba in an effort to wrest that town from the rebels.

Governor Fleets

The telegram was received by Augusto Bezerra de Medeiros, member of the Chamber from Rio Grande do Norte. Another private telegram to Bezerra de Medeiros said Rafael Fernandes, deposed governor of Rio Grande do Norte, had taken refuge on a Mexican coast guard vessel anchored at Natal.

Communications still were disrupted.

Previous advices reported an outbreak in Curitiba, capital of the southern state of Parana, and said the rebels were near Recife (Pernambuco), although driven from several nearby towns.

Non-commissioned officers of the army were said to be leaders of the insurrection, adopting their tactics from the successful Cuban revolt of 1933.

Zeppelin Endangered

Fears were expressed for the safety of the huge Graf Zeppelin due to Recife, in the northeast area where the fighting is hottest, after a flight from Africa. It ordinarily moors at Jeiquia, on the outskirts of the city, near Orinda, where federal forces and rebels were battling. Agents for the ship had ordered the airship by radio to land elsewhere if possible.

Vargas said the plot was not confined to the states of Pernambuco and Rio Grande do Norte but also embraced the 18 other states of the nation.

"There is proof of the intention to implant a Communist regime," he asserted.

Folies Chief Mueller of Dio de Janeiro, the most important agent working directly under the minister of the interior, reported at least a month ago that the maturing plans had brought again to Brazil Luiz Carlos Prestes, "the Knight of Hope" of the 1934 Sao Paulo rebellion, to head this revolt.

A Communist manifesto, pledging nationalization of banks, expropriation of foreign vested interests and a declaration of war "to all foreign imperialism," was circulated secretly in Rio de Janeiro. An eight-hour day for workers, minimum wages and vacations with pay were other planks.

Cemetery Work

The Robinson cemetery will be cleaned and flowers planted around graves next Friday, November 29. All persons interested are asked to be present at that time.

But Per Capita Sale Is Only 52% of What It Was 18 Years Ago, With Population Increase

Three Quarts a Year!

In a letter written last Friday, November 22, I called on the Washington bureau of the Associated Press to furnish The Star authentic figures on liquor consumption in the United States under repeal conditions, as compared with consumption in the old saloon days.

The news dispatch in the adjoining column is the result of that letter.

America is buying only 64 per cent as much liquor as she bought at the peak of the saloon days.

But taking into consideration the population growth in the 18 years since 1917, the per capita consumption today is only 52½ per cent—practically half—what it was in the saloon days.

Here are the authentic figures:

YEAR	Gallons of Liquor Consumed	United States' Population	Consumption Per Capita
1917	164,291,683	101,589,115 (A)	1.616 gallon
1935	107,172,000	126,425,000 (B)	.848 gallon

(A) 1917 population computed as seven-tenths of way between government census of 1910 and 1920.

(B) 1935 population taken from World Almanac, nationally recognized handbook.

In the struggle to find some adequate system of liquor control The Star is merely attempting to appraise the problem from hard cold facts.

Isn't the churches primarily that have reduced liquor consumption. Nor was it statutory prohibition.

But the fact is that America herself has changed since the old saloon days.

The time-payment system of purchasing goods has come along, and in these modern times the average American is hedged in by a ring of monthly payments, for automobiles, radios, refrigerators, and such.

The competition of more worth-while goods has permanently curtailed the liquor business—as the record clearly shows.

But there still remains the problem of regulating liquor sales to a certain small percentage of the people.

Statutory prohibition, that makes a criminal out of the casual drinker as well as the community drunkard, is no answer. The people won't respect such a law. They won't enforce it. They will beat anybody who tries to enforce it in three out of four elections, as the record shows in almost any Arkansas county.

The Star opposes local prohibition referendums, wherever they be.

Our people are in this position: In order to prohibit a traffic that actually averages only three quarts of liquor per capita per year they would, under prohibition, commit themselves to a criminal court program that would finish bankrupting the land taxes. Either that, or the law wouldn't be enforced.

It has only been three or four years ago that the Hempstead circuit court appropriation was running between $12,000 and $13,000 a year, and was always overdrawn at that. It has been cut in half—but prohibition will shove it back up again with incredible speed.

This is an expensive and discredited policy.

The Star does not believe in legalizing liquor for more than a nominal revenue. But if liquor is to be drunk at all, it should bear a tax—and the tax should be devoted as much as possible to restricting its sale.

That's why we advocate a state dispensary plan, licensed by the state government and operated by the city and county governments, with one store to a town.

That's the plan of the Rockefeller, pioneer Anti-Saloon League men.

It is a plan we have never yet tried.

Federal Treasury Figures Obtained for Star by A. P.

Tax-Paid Withdrawals Give Accurate Index to National Sales.

WHISKY IS LEADER

But All Alcoholic Beverages Save Gin Show Decided Sale Losses

WASHINGTON—(AP)—United States Treasury statisticians said Tuesday that the American public is consuming much less legal liquor now than in the "wettest" pre-prohibition days.

They said that consumption of distilled spirits (hard liquor) is running about 64 per cent of the pre-prohibition peak.

Basing their figures on tax-paid withdrawals of liquor from distilleries and storage places for sale, they said that consumption in September was 8,331,542 tax gallons, or at the rate of 107,172,000 gallons per year.

Peak Was 1917

During the fiscal year 1917, consumption was 164,291,683 gallons, the highest on record.

Consumption in the fiscal year ended last June 30, was only 75,913,103 gallons, or 45.7 per cent of the peak year.

For specific liquors, whisky leads all others. It is responsible for about 70 per cent of all sales. Of 8,331,542 gallons of distilled spirits consumed in September, whisky's share was 5,371,732 gallons.

Gin Has Gained

Gin is the only kind running ahead of pre-prohibition days. In the fiscal year 1935 a total of 5,477,823 gallons was consumed, compared with 1,130,210 in the last year before prohibition, and a peak of 5,408,321 in 1917.

Consumption by classification in the last fiscal year was:

Whisky 50,780,940 gallons; rum 313,124 gallons; gin 5,477,823 gallons; brandy 1,435,455 gallons; alcohol 17,666,651 gallons.

Ellsworth Lost in Antarctic, Belief

Rescue Operations Planned—Byrd Thinks Ellsworth Safe

CHICAGO—(AP)—Admiral Richard E. Byrd, conqueror of both poles, said Tuesday he thinks Lincoln Ellsworth, unheard from for four days on his flight across the Antarctic continent, had "made it."

"I see no reason to worry," the admiral declared, when advised of the position Ellsworth gave when last reported.

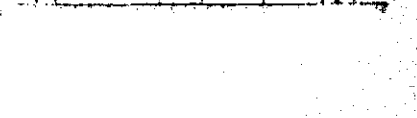

Explorer Missing

NEW YORK—Lincoln Ellsworth, Arctic explorer, and his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, have been missing since 10:46 a. m. Sunday on a flight from Dundee island and the Antarctic to the Ross sea, the New York Times said Monday night.

A dispatch from Ellsworth's base ship, the Wyatt Earp, said the silence called for immediate establishment of depots for rescue operations if nothing was heard from the plane soon.

Ellsworth and Hollick-Kenyon took off Saturday in their plane, the Polar Star, for the 2,140-mile flight over the Antarctic continental mass. Periodic radio messages informed the base ship that all was well until Sunday, when Ellsworth said, "Still clear, no wind." Then the radio went silent.

Alcoholic Deaths

Physicians would avoid signing a death certificate attributing the cause to alcoholism if another listing were possible.

Five dry states showed increases during last year in alcoholic deaths. Deaths in Alabama increased from 40 to 51; Georgia, 50 to 76; Kansas, 17 to 25; Oklahoma, 33 to 56, and Texas, then dry, from 80 to 107. Mississippi's alcohol death remained at 21 for both 1933 and 1934.

On the other hand, New York's death rate dropped sharply during the first full year after repeal, which became effective in December, 1933. During 1933, there were 635 such deaths, while the total dropped to 564 last year.

Christian Should Live Accordingly

So That the World Will Know Him as Such, Says Rev. Bert Webb

The Rev. Bert Webb used the 126th Psalm as the basis of his sermon Monday night. He said:

"I never speak along the lines I am to, tonight, without thinking of the appropriation of what God has provided for us. It is like people coming to a well-filled table and going away hungry. We are living so far beneath our privileges in that we do not appropriate the things God has provided for us.

"When the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion, we were like them that dream. The sense of this verse is that it is too good to be true. Have you ever had God answer your prayers until it was almost too good to be true. God does not always answer our prayers just as we want him to. The wife of an English business man living in South Africa prayed very definitely that God would save her son before he left Africa for England to complete his education. Somehow she felt that God had forsaken her in that he failed without becoming a Christian. However, there was a missionary on board the steamer that came in contact with the young man and through him the boy was soundly converted and prepared himself for the mission field instead of going to the school he had intended to when he left home. Too many times we give up just before the battle is won. Let us be careful that we do not accuse God of being unjust to us.

"The heathen said, 'The Lord hath done great things for them.' I believe that a Christian should live so that the world would see that they are Christians. The scripture says 'Come out from among them and be ye separate.' God expects you to be different from the world, but He doesn't expect you to be foolishly different. God's people should be peculiar, not because of their dress, but because of their not partaking of sin or sinful pleasures.

"Psalm 126 is entirely applicable to the church age. We can pray God now to bring in the sheaves. You may be one of the reapers, or one of the gleaners, but brother, sister, reap some grain for God. Set your goal to help someone find Christ."

family's budget allowance of $30 of last autumn shows an increase of 8.72 per cent in cost, necessitating a monthly grocery, meat and milk bill of $32.62 to set the same table in the autumn of 1935.

A slight drop in cost for clothing, fuel and light partially offset these increases. Actual average earning gained enough, however, during the period to give the family pocketbook a gain of $2.55 over outgo each month.

ed. He proclaimed political independence of Nanking and said his government was "autonomous, not separatist."

Martial Law in Tientsin

Martial law was declared in Tientsin when an attempted coup by independence adherents collapsed. Police, red with rifles and bayonets, were on duty in the streets.

There was a report that Japanese military officers had warned enforcement on the demilitarized zone, in which the new state was set up, would not be tolerated. In Shanghai it was said that the government's hope of stopping the autonomy movement rested on the loyalty of Sun Chieh-Yuan and the possibility that the Japanese might be induced to co-operate in a suppression movement. In Peking, Chinese officials apprehensive that the return of Gen. Kiang Dohara of the Japanese army passages at attempt to control a "Peiping autonomous" zone, were tending to strengthen their position and eventually to Shansi, Szechuan and Shantung provinces. More than 1,000 demonstrators Japanese army trucks and weapons uniformed soldiers of the Manchukuo army, paraded in Tientsin. Municipal authorities avoided any direct contact with the demonstrators, but a crowd of thousands gathered on the main street and tore up banners and sent garlands, disrupting plans for a military inspection. Hope of popular support warlike as when a crowd of thousands tore up banners and sent garlands, disrupting plans for a military inspection. The American mission school here had not been disturbed.
